BLOOMINGTON, ILL. Special Correspondence of The Sunday Republic, Bloomington, Ill., Nov. 1.—Bloomington society dipped into the Halloween festival this fall and there were a number of events of a social nature on the night of All Saints. Among the most notable was that at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Funk. The guests were the nephews and nieces of the couple among the younger generation of the Funk family who have been married in recent years. The duling room was illuminated with numpkin lanterns, typical of the festival, and heart favors were distributed. Old-time gamen, such as were played by the young people in years gone by on festival night, were indulged in and the party was a merry one. Several notable weddings of the fall and winter have been food for discussion among the local 20. The first was that of Harry Garwood and Miss Margaret Cole, celebrated last week. The next will be celebrated Decamber II. Mr. Seemer Ewing, son of James S. Ewing, who is the law partner of former Vice Fresident Adial E. Stevenson, is to wed Miss Unich of Decahur. New York, Nov. 2.-Added to the cost of a pearl necklace brought to the United States by Mrs. H. H. Black, who lives at the Holland House is $20,000, or half the amount paid for it, because of her husband's desire not to cheat Uncle Sam out of the duty to which he believes he is entitled on the valuable article.

admired by the friends of the family, who envied Mrs. Black her rich possession, never thinking that some day Uncle Sam would be collecting many thousands of dollars of duty on the article.

Mr. Black, who is president of the George A. Fuller Company, went to Collector Bidwell a few days ago and made arrangements for the payment of about $20,000 duty, or whatever amount may be required after an official appraisement of the necklace has been made. The necklace has been made. The necklace has been made it would have been if Mr. Black had not manifested a disposition to meet the demands of the customs officials promptly.

It is said by a person who is close to the family that Mrs. Black purchased the necklace without the knowledge of her husband, making all such purchases of Jewerry without consulting him, and that he did not even know that she had it when she landed in New York.

"As soon as Mr. Black ascertained the facts he went to the collector and offered to pay the duty," said this friend of the family.

On the other hand, it is said that after Mrs. Black had returned with the necklace she showed it to several of her intimate friends. It consists of forty-eight large pearls, beautifully mounted. The admira-tion of these friends was excited and the necklace became the talk of their social

CIRCUS LIFE WAS A DELUSION.

Prominent Young Man Tired of It and Now Goes Home.

Rose is a grandson of Bishop Whipple and a son of Doctor F. M. Rose of Faribault. Mr. and Mrs. Black stepped ashore from the steamer Teutonic on September 19, the customs inspectors who had taken their declarations on shipboard and those who went through their luggage on the White Star line pler had no idea that Mrs. Black had in her possession the magnificent pearl necklace for which she had paid something like $40,000 in Paris.

She did not tell them she had it, and they failed to discover it. As a consequence it was taken up to the Holland House to be admired by the friends of the family, who envied Mrs. Black her rich possession, never thinking that some day Uncle Sam would be collecting many thousands of dollars of duty on the article.

FIVE-GORED SKIRT.

This Garment Closes in the Center Back and the Fullness Is Arranged in a Pleat.

ranged in a Pleat.

Ladies' Five Gored Skirt With Two Circular Flounces, No. 8484—Flounce effects afford a splendid opportunity for trimming skirts which cannot be obtained in the circular or gored models. Many new flounce skirts are shown this season, but few are as popular as the mode here illustrated, made of light gray broadcloth.

The foundation is a five-gored skirt, shaped with front gore, narrow side gores and wide backs, which are fitted smoothly without darts. The skirt closes in the center back and the fullness is arranged in an underlying pleat at each side of the closing. These pleats are flatly pressed to preserve a perfectly plain appearance at the top and fall in graceful folds. The skirt is cut full length and is finished with New Century brush binding, which is silky and will not rub the shoes.

Two circular flounces of even depth are applied around the bottom. These flounces are each trimmed with three bands of cloth, which are machine stitched. The skirt may be made plain, with one or two flounces as preferred.

Zibeline, cheviot, cameishair, melton or poplin may be developed in this mode. It is also appropriate for nun's veiling, albaiross, crepe de chine or satin with lace or velvet ribbon for trimming on the flounces.

To make the skirt in the medium size will require five and one-half yards of forty-four inch material. The pattern, No. 884, is cut in sizes for a 22, 24, 28, 39 and 32 inch walst measure.

Ladies' Fancy Blouse, No. $455.—Pale blue poplin is here tastefully trimmed with black velvet and point d'Arabe lace.

The foundation he a glove-fitted lining, which closes in the center front and is featherboned. The back is plain across the shoulders, with tiny plaits at the waist.

The fronts are tucked on the shoulders, and the tucks stitched down about halfway, the fullness forming a blouse over the velvet belt. The fronts open to display a narrow velvet vest, which is trimmed with bands of lace. They are laced together with narrow velvet ribbons rum through large cyclets worked on the edges
